

Commercial Recreation Day Use Registration

The Department of Natural Resources (DNR) will begin to gather yearly expected use patterns from commercial recreation operators through this registration system. The level of commercial recreation activities occurring on state land is increasing. Many of these activities do not require permits, therefore DNR has not been able to obtain much of the commercial use data needed to make informed land management decisions. DNR needs to collect information about where such uses are occurring, how many clients are recreating on state land and the type of activity that is occurring.

To acquire this information, DNR adopted regulations creating a registration system for day use of state land by commercial recreation operators. This new requirement became effective December 7, 2002. DNR recognizes that there are many different types of commercial recreation occurring on state lands. In this initial phase of implementation, DNR will begin registration for commercial recreation activities on all state-owned tidelands and uplands, including shorelands and fresh water bodies. DNR understands that this registration system may not capture all use on state lands. Some time after implementation, DNR will evaluate the registration program and make any necessary modifications.
